R. L. GREENE Louisville, Ky., July 3 .- With the full returns from twenty five missing in the wide Democratic primary held Saturday, there are two races which are still in doubt. These missing counties are practically all in the Tenth and Eleventh congressional districts. The races for lieutenant governor and state auditor are close contests. From reports received by the Courier-Journal in the lieutenant gover nor's race James P. Edwards leads E. J. McDermett 141 votes. These same returns show Ruby Laffoon votes. Meager reports from some of the missing counties indicate that McDermott may overcome Edwards'

some information concerning the lieu- the Republican party of Ohio county in these counties, but to little avail. vention Saturday. Telephonic communication could not be had with most of them, while with others the vote in Saturday's primary had not been counted. The Member of District Board, Taylor case with Union county, which had not tabulated the state vote, was that a primary for county offices was also held Saturday. The same trouble existed in Hardin county.

The counties missed by congressional districts are as follows: First district, Carlisle; Second district, Union; Ninth district, Boyd, Lewis, Rowan: Tenth district, Elliot, Estill, Floyd, Johnson, Knott, Martin, Ma-Jackson, Leslie, Monroe, Owsley, Perry, Wayne and Whitley.

McCreary's majority in the race for the nomination for governor, will reach 30,000. Garnett has won over O.H.Pollard for attorney general with about the same figures; Hamlett for Superintendent of Public Instruction, will have about 25,000 plurality over Litterall and Eubank; J. W. Newman made a runaway race for commissioner of agriculture, his plurality probably being larger than that of Me-Creary for governor.

In form the Dorsets are not so far unlike the Southdown. Rape pasture is cheaper than groun feed and should be used. Sows and young plgs should be on pasture as soon as possible.

Old sows are a class by themselves so far as quality of meat goes. The hog is a waste saver. It stops many a leak in the farm. Nothing improves the soil more raidly than clover as a hog pasture. Hogs can not be raised with profit without suitable pasture of kind.

Salt is the shepherd's friend, as it makes his flock love him and follow his leading.

Too many farmers have failed to appreciate the possibilities of rye as hog pasture.

Shoats can be turned on rape or. clover pasture, without grain, and make steady gains.

Condition in Cigar Leaf Sections Are Brighter---Reports From All Over the Country.!

Frankfort, Ky., July 3.-That there will be no new record made by the tobacco crop of the United States in 1911 is a fact clearly indicated by a thorough canvass just completed in all the important tobacco-producing sections of the country. In many ed a nice bunch of squirrels last localities the farmers, after having had a somewhat prolong d period of advancing prices, have become dissatisfied with a slight slump in the market and this has had a tendency to curtail the acreage to a certain extent. The hot, dry weather of the Mr. Deimer Shewart has given up month of May was unfavorable for the development of the plants in the beds and the baked condition of the soil prevented favorable planting everywhere. The very lateness of the season in many localities renders it a little more difficult than ordinarily to secure accurate data as to the acreage planted in tobacco this year. In the large producing sections such as Kentucky. North Carolina, Virginia, Ohio, Tennessee, Wisconsin and Connecticut, a careful canvas has been made, and the total apparent acreage in all sections in 1911 amounts to 953,658

Computations based on the average yield per acre for the past 10 years in the various states named indicate a total tobacco yield in the United States this year of 786,410,-435 pounds. The harvested acreage in 1910 was estimated at 1,149,831 acres, with a yield of 931,068,695

In the Ohio valley the crop is from two to three weeks late and a great deal depends upon the kind of growing weather from this date on. In the blue grass section counties is a question. The Laftoon worthy. The report that he cannot nous and malt liquors. The delay have died since last year. Upon clos- to Owensbore to see the aeroplane Kentucky fear of early frosts is already causing some alarm, though of course this is a little premature In Wisconsin conditions are reported as the most favorable in many years. The crop is all transplanted and the plants reported in a thriving condition. The acreage is above that of last year, and the out> look seems good. The apparent area planted to tobacco in Kentucky, the greatest tobacco-producing section in the country, or for that matter in the world, amounts to 282,751 acres. The average yield per acre in Kentucky under present conditions is not far from $50 pounds. On this basis the 1911 acreage should yield approximately 240,338,350 pounds of tobacco. The estimate last fall for the 1910 crop showed a harvested area in Kentucky amounting to 375,908 acreas, yielding 197.652,000 pounds of burley, and 139,-283,400 pounds of dark, a total of 236,935,400 pounds of tobacco.
